TECHNOLOGY GIVES EVERYONE A VOICE

An educational presentation on electronic augmentative communication systems given at the Community Rehabilitation Center in Lake Katrine provided valuable information to therapists such as Kathryn Delameter and consumers such as Judy Tompkins. The presentation was hosted by UCP of Ulster County and the Hudson Valley Technology Related Assistance for individuals with Disabilities (TRAID). AAC (alternative, augmentative communication) devices are used by those with significant oral-motor difficulties such as those with cerebral palsy, ALS, muscular dystrophy, head trauma or other neuro muscular disorders.

For information about communication devices or technology related assistance or the TRAID Project, call CRC at (845) 336-7235.
